FACULTY SHOWCASE

If you have an exciting announcement to share with your colleagues please email Swati Jain Goel, MD at swati.goel@howard.edu so that we can highlight in our newsletter!

Congratulations to Richard Schottenfeld, M.D. on his interview with SELF Magazine regarding the glaring need for normalization of mental health care in communities of color. Richard S. Schottenfeld, M.D. is the Chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the Howard University College of Medicine. In his interview, he tells SELF, "Mental health issues have been stigmatized in many societies and communities, and remain that way, and we know that that stigma has been very prominent in the black community."

Dr. Schottenfeld is an experienced clinician, teacher, and clinical researcher who has focused on improving the efficacy, accessibility and availability of addictions treatment in the United States and internationally (in Malaysia, Iran and China). In clinical trials and clinical epidemiologic studies, he has developed new programs that integrate addictions treatment and general medical services and has evaluated the pharmacological and behavioral components of different treatments for opioid dependence and other addictive disorders. In his clinical, administrative and teaching roles, he oversaw development of a multi-component drug abuse treatment program providing innovative ambulatory and residential treatment for addictive disorders and was the founding Director of the Addiction Psychiatry Residency Training Program and the drug abuse clinical research post-doctoral training program at Yale.
